DANGER: to International Students: BEWARE of The University of Melbourne

by Alex Gordon LLB

Prof. Glyn Davis, VC The University of Melbourne, [UM] paralleling his mate Kevin Rudd, [Peas in a Pod]. Davis orchestrated the evil attack on Megumi Ogawa stripping her of her student visa and her imprisonment for 70 days at Villawood, for being an 'illegal alien', because she would not accept their cavalier denial of her legal rights. This was the labor bureaucrats in the DIMIA of the Australian Government who did this. All International students in Australia, face the same peril. Megumi warns Australia is a DANGER for International Students. What would Kevin Rudd, good mate of Davis, do if he becomes PM of Australia? HAIGPHOTO

What about OTHER ALLSTRALIAN Universities?

It is not necessary for us to rehash the public humiliation that had been metered out to Megumi Ogawa, including 70 days in Villawood [immigration “prison”], where she was the only Japanese national.

That is all on the public record and we refer you to it. If you are a potential International Student contemplating study in Australia, we recommend that you familiarize yourself well with all of that material. These are report from the Fairfax Newspaper, the Sydney Morning Herald of 24 July, 2006, the ABC Radio PM program of 27 July, 2006, the ABC Radio AM program of 29 July, 2006, and article in the Fairfax Newspaper, The Age of 29 July, 2006.

IN this journal, we will concentrate on the matters and reasons Behind the News and the people involved, and the likely future in this regard.

This matter has come to light only because Megumi Ogawa chose to take them on and fight. Had she not, she would have been deported from Australia, for being illegally within Australia, and her future Academic career internationally would have been ruined. In 2007, Megumi turned 40. She is a mature responsible woman. Her Husband is a Professor of Law in Japan. She has been in Australia since 1999, working at obtaining her PhD in Law.

What they attempted with Megumi, is the usual practice for UM, under the control of Glyn Davis. For International Students [IS] this involves taking their money, and if that IS causes anything out of the ordinary, likely to mean any extra work, thought on the part of UM, the response of UM is to initiate a process whereby the IS finds their Student Visa [SV] under threat from DIMIA (Department of Immigration and Multicultural and Indigenous Affairs). Megumi would not be intimidated and was locked up [for 70 days], only after she took legal action against The University of Melbourne [UM] over the conduct of a supervisor, and the failure of UM to honour their contract with her. They acted as though they could defeat her by frustrating her attempts to gain justice as they have done repeatedly previously with International Students dependent upon their Student Visa. This criminal practice is continuing to occur and the legal structure persists so the UM can continue their fraudulent practice. The Question for International Students is whether this occurs with other universities in Australia.

Will this fraudulent practice continue? Consider: Prof Glyn Davis and Kevin Rudd, the present labor aspirant for the position of Prime Minister [PM] of Australia,, in the Federal Election later this year. Davis and Rudd are great mates. They were both equivalently Senior bureaucrats in the Executive of the Queensland Labor Government. The wicked situation whereby the UM [and potentially all other Australian Universities] can defraud International Students is likely to only increase if Kevin Rudd becomes PM later this year, 2007.
